

Miss Lettie Girardeau, of Monticello, arrived yesterday to pay a visit to Miss Evelyn Lewis.

Mr. John Donk, representing the Simmons Hardware Company of St. Louis, Mo., is at home for a few days.

We learn that Mr. Breckenridge Gamble formerly of this city has gone into business with his brother-in-law, Mr. H. V. R. Schrader, at Greenwood, S. C.

Gov. Jennings returned yesterday from a trip to his old home at Brooksville where he has been taking a much needed rest.

Mr. H. C. Herring and family are pleasantly located in Miss McGinniss' cottage in the eastern suburb of the city, formerly occupied by Mr. Eugene Dickie.

Commissioner of Agriculture MacLin last week sent a large amount of printed matter descriptive of Florida to the Pan-American Exposition for free distribution.

Cupid has been very busy playing his pranks among our young people this spring, and rumor says that he has not finished his little game yet.

Tot Causes Night Alarm.

"One night my brother's baby was taken with Croup," writes Mrs. J. C. Snider, of Crittenden, Ky., "it seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor, so we gave it Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Infalible for Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all druggists.

The City Council at their meeting last Thursday night passed two very important ordinances, which will be found in another column. One was to forbid the placing of obstructions on the streets and sidewalks, and the other, of equal importance, forbidding the drivers of vehicles leaving their animals standing in the streets unattended. Both are good laws and we trust will be enforced to the letter.

County School Superintendent Bannerman publishes in this issue a list of the text books, together with their prices, which will be made the basis of the questions for the regular uniform examination, to be held Sept. 23, 1901. Teachers expecting to attend these examinations can therefore take notice and prepare themselves in advance.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness," Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as the outside. Constipation clogs the body and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poisoning the blood with its foul emanations, befogging the brain with its tainted exhalations. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than, perhaps, any other disorder. The consequences of constipation are legion. Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, undue fullness after eating, coldness of the extremities, nervousness, indecision, lassitude, dizziness, salivary, flatulence, and a score of other ailments are directly caused by constipation. Cure constipation and you cure all its consequences. The quickest cure of this evil is obtained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are small in size but wonderful in result. They cure permanently. They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not beget the "pill habit." Ask your druggist for them.

Send 21 one-cent stamps, the expense of mailing only, and receive Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers. This work contains 1008 pages and 700 illustrations. For 31 stamps it can be had in substantial cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Attractive Women.

All women sensibly desire to be attractive. Beauty is the stamp of health because it is the outward manifestation of inner purity. A healthy woman is always attractive, bright and happy. When every drop of blood in the veins is pure, a beautiful flush is on the cheek. But when the blood is impure, morose, bad temper and a sallow complexion tells the tale of sickness, all too plainly. And women to-day know there is no beauty without health. Wine of Cardui cures women with beauty and attractiveness by making strong and healthy those organs which make her a woman. Try Wine of Cardui, and in a month your friends will hardly know you.

Making It Rather Personal.

This is credited as one of General Lew Wallace's Turkish Jokes: There lived in Stamboul, Turkey, a well to do Turk named Ismail Ismail Hassam. He was endowed with oriental wit that stood him well in hand when he was in a tight place. A neighbor called on Ismail one day and wanted to borrow his donkey to use an hour. Ismail made a low salaam and said:

"Neighbor, I am sorry, but my boy started on the donkey an hour ago to Scutari. By now he is gayly trotting over the hills far from the sacred precincts of Stamboul."

Just as Ismail finished his speech a donkey's loud bray was heard in the stable, which was under the same roof as Ismail's house, but in the rear. The neighbor said:

"Ah, I hear your donkey bray."

Ismail protested that his neighbor's ears were deceived and that the noise was not a donkey's bray. Then the donkey, which was supposed to be jogging along toward Scutari, brayed twice loudly. It was too much, and the neighbor cried:

"Oh, that is your donkey, Ismail. Allah help me, I can now borrow him."

Then Ismail said:

"Which do you believe is lying, the donkey or me?"

The neighbor had to give Ismail the benefit of the doubt and went away.

Why Spiders Are Not Insects.

The spider is not an insect, though probably nine people out of ten would class it under this term. With scorpions and mites spiders form a class in the animal kingdom known as Arachnida. This name is derived from a mythical personage called Arachne, the daughter of a purple dyer of Lydia, who was fabled to have challenged Minerva to a trial of skill in spinning. So indignant was the goddess at this act of boldness that she forthwith transformed the hapless challenger into a spider, presumably in order that she might have the best possible opportunity of practicing the art on which she prided herself so much.

Spiders differ from insects in five main particulars. Their eyes are simple instead of compound, they have eight legs in place of six, they do not pass through the metamorphoses which are characteristic of insects, they have no antennae and their breathing is accomplished by means of organs which combine the functions of lungs and gills, instead of by tubes pervading their bodies. These points of distinction are sufficient to determine the fact that it is impossible to class spiders as insects.

Weir Mitchell and Whitman.

In Dr. Weir Mitchell's book a pleasant story or two is told of Walt Whitman, the writer, to whom some would deny the name of poet, while others regard him as one of the greatest of all poets. One of the characters in the story of "Dr. North and His Friends" says that Whitman was eaten up by his own vanity, regarding everything he did as of such supreme value that he had lost all power of self criticism and could not tell good from bad or indifferent. Once he was asked if he thought Shakespeare as great a poet as himself. He replied that he had often thought of that, but had never been able to come to a decision.

He went to a physician upon an occasion, thinking himself seriously out of health. When he learned that his ailment, whatever it was, could be treated best by living as much as possible out of doors without dosing with medicine, he was leaving in all good humor when he bethought himself of the physician's fee. "How much will it be?" he inquired. "The debt was paid long ago," said the doctor, who knew and liked his writings. "It is 23

Florence, S. C., Nov. 26, 1900.

I was first advised by our family physician in Charleston to use Teething with our baby when she was but a very young infant, as a preventive of colic and to warm and sweeten the stomach. Later it was useful in teething troubles, and its effect has been found to be very beneficial and so free from the dangers that are consequent upon the use of drugs and soothing syrups, that we have come to regard it, after use with three children, as one of the necessities when there is a new baby in the house and until the teething troubles are over, and we take pleasure in recommending it to our friends instead of the horrid stuff that so many people use to keep their babies quiet.

you who are still the creator." Whittman thanked him and went out. Another patient, a lady, had taken his place when he returned, but his two great hands on the table opposite his medical adviser—he had not stopped to knock or announce himself—and said, "That, sir, I call poetry."

The lady was scandalized by his abrupt appearance and demeanor and asked as soon as the writer had gone for the second time, "Is the gentleman insane?" but, learning his identity, she wished he had asked for his autograph.

Poison Proof Animals.

Neither differences of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the poisonous substance generally afford any clue for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the plant.

Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect is a different one, consisting of spasms. The meat of goats which had fed on hemlock has sometimes occasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nux vomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it while in the smallest amount it is a fatal poison to rodents.

More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Cholepus hoffmanni, a kind of sloth living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely sensitive to foxglove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.

Why should a novel writer be an extraordinary looking animal? Because of his tale coming out of his head.—Philadelphia Ledger.
